Gregory “Steve” Proctor, Jr. is the President and CEO of G.S. Proctor & Associates, Inc., one of the most highly respected government and private sector advocacy organizations in Maryland, with offices located in Upper Marlboro and Annapolis. Since its founding in 1995, Steve and his associates have provided legislative and administrative lobbying representation to a broad spectrum of clients; including institutions of higher learning, non-profit organizations, local and multinational businesses, and local and international governmental bodies on the county, state and federal levels. For the last 10 years, G.S. Proctor has been consistently ranked among the Top Ten lobbying firms in the State of Maryland.

Steve and his wife, Dianne, reside in Upper Marlboro, MD where they have raised their four adult sons, Aaron, Brian, Trey and Troy. After matriculating from Towson University, he received his B.A. in Political Science from his alma mater, George Washington University. Always the entrepreneur, he owns and operates several ventures throughout Prince George’s County and the state of Maryland. Always with a spirit of philanthropy, he is an extremely active member of the community, holding multiple terms and meaningful relationships with seats on boards for several organizations including United Way of the National Capital Area, Junior Achievement of Greater Washington, and Prince George’s Community College Foundation. When Steve is not helping others, he serves on several leadership positions on professional boards as well, including sitting on the Board of Directors at Old Line Bank, MedStar Health, Greater Prince George’s Business Roundtable, and the Greater Washington Board of Trade.

Steve regularly supports many organizations with their community initiatives and scholarship events through direct service and financial donations. He strongly believes in the value of a good education and relishes the opportunity to give back to the community, so much that he and Dianne created the Executive Corporate Partnership Committee at Bishop McNamara High School. Our goal is to help Bishop McNamara bring their vision to life for the new La Reine Science & Innovation Center, which will exponentially further the educational goals of our future leaders.
